

The Battle of Jackson

You'll have to band together if you don't have the numbers.

0     5     10    15    20    25    30    35    40    45    50
|     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |
Seasons of tension had left people scared
+ A finger was pointed, a war was declared
+ On the eve of battle the soldiers prepared
|     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |
x As quick as a blink every dollar was spent
+ The treasuries emptied of cash, every cent
+ They turned an eye blind; off to war they went
|     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |
+ At the general's direction marched the platoon
+ They advanced by degrees and they arrived soon
+ In boots made of leather and jackets maroon
|     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |
x The pilots released their bombs over the town
x Like a matchbox, the city was razed to the ground
x The soldiers stormed houses and kicked the doors down
|     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |
x Then the time for fighting was finally adjourned
+ A great sum was lost and success was hard earned
+ The republic rejoiced as its soldiers returned
|     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |     |
